Thank you to everyone who contributed to the #defyhatenow initiative with your ideas, time, positive energy and creative collaborations linking peacebuilding action on the ground in and around South Sudan with communities online worldwide.

#defyhatenow dedicates this Field Guide to the citizens of South Sudan working to create a peaceful society wherever they may be.

Acknowledgements: Thanks to the many #defyhatenow participants, workshop facilitators & correspondents who have helped build up the initiative since the idea arose in early 2014 in reaction to the South Sudan conflict which erupted in late 2013.

In developing its current outreach, assembling and prototyping (in 2017) then publishing this Field Guide in 2018 we would like to thank in particular the #defyhatenow teams - in South Sudan: Achol Jok Mach, Hakim George, Grace Keji, Marina Modi, Suzan Kim Otor, Yine Yenki Nyika, Parach Mach, Bullen Chol, Maura Ajak, John Bior Ajang, Emmanuel Lobijo, Viola Abango, Reech Malual, Samir Bol, Sam Lukudu and Olimba Edwards. In Kenya: Nelson Kwaje, Kendi Gikunda, Stephen Garunda, Clement Lobi Lotiang, Paul Simiu, and Calvin Ochieng. In Uganda: John Jal Dak, Amuna Vivian, Manase Imbe, Jacob Nhial Bol, Jaiksana Amaruda José, Otim Francis, William Vuga, and Free-Boy the African. In Sudan: Lujain Al Sedeg, and George Mel. In Canada: Buk Arop. rOg_agency Berlin: Stephen Kovats, Susanne Bellinghausen, Jodi Rose, Roman Deckert, Petra Borrmann, Johanna Havemann, Regina Diaz and Fadia Elgharib.

Keep spreading peace, every day of the year!

Think about what you can do next. Be actively engaged in peace on a daily basis in your own life. Keep building peace within you inside your heart, and seek professional help to overcome trauma. Remember that every day you have the chance to choose peace, promote understanding, compassion and reconciliation through your own communication, experiences and interactions. Don't let anyone with a political agenda derail your efforts or divide you from peaceful intentions.

Thank you for your positive energy and contribution to making the world a more peaceful place.
